He initiated the session with the reasons we study management and how it is a part of our day to day life. He then went on to give his version of what management means and added that any discipline in education could be turned into a management topic. He brought out the management we had during the barter system and he termed it to be traditional management. It was followed by semi traditional management, where people started moving from one place to another to trade. These two lead to the evolution of the management in its current form - modern management which has a huge hierarchy and divisions. He pointed out that the failure of any company will be fundamentally due to its failure to understand the demands and needs of its customers. Difference between a manager and an optimizer was discussed. About 56 enthusiastic students attended the session. The curtains were brought down with the National anthem.
